PREFACE

My first year out of college I found a live-action role play group in my hometown. They played a class based foam-fighting game that I instantly fell in love with. Every week for a year I showed up to the battlefield as Xavril Arroway, the one-eyed archer. I worn my dad's old SCA cloak, leather armor, and some old sweatpants, and waddled around a field with a pincushion of a quiver hanging from my hip.

I was very happy.

The best thing about those days was the community I saw that had been built around their game. It wasn't just nerdy guys in their twenties frittering away their disposable income and painless joints; it wasn't just big dudes hitting hard. There were families who would come, each parent alternating playing and watching the kids. There were members that had been playing the same class for years, excited when they heard a newbie wanted to learn from them (Thank you for teaching me how to make arrows, Fuji). There was a Healer in her fifties wearing immaculate garb, casting spells for her team on the back line. She never swung a sword; if the enemy got too close she would just take a death. She was one of the most powerful and respected player on the battlefield.

I moved to Chicago that fall. I tried to find large, active groups in my area, but I couldn't. I found a few small groups in the city, I drove out to Aurora a few times, I even went to a massive weekend gathering a few hours south. But nothing I found had that same sense of community, it was just big dudes hitting hard.

I wanted to fix that, so I made STORMS.

STORMS aims to make foam-fighting more casual and accessible for everyone. Armor isn't heavy equipment that you have to spend hundreds of dollars on and physically lug around the field, it's just a feature you get as part of your class. Players don't need to show up in hand-made garb or period appropriate clothing, most just come in their gym clothes. Magic makes it so players that don't want to be aggressive physical fighters still have a place in the game. It's not just big dudes hitting hard. The hope is that these rules and this philosophy will allow anyone to find a place in this game and this community.

This version of the game represents over five years of effort from not just myself, but the amazing group of people that have spent their nights and weekends making this game the best it can be. A special thanks to STORMS co-founder, Gabby, who puts up with more of my nonsense than you would believe. Thanks also to Jing, Lou, Mark, and Chris for all their support during our first few seasons. And thanks to you for being part of this silly game where we hit each other with foam swords.

Regards,

Jay Simon
Storms Founder

COMBAT

Strikes

A Strike is inflicted by contacting a Hit Location with a Strike-Legal portion of a Weapon. There are three categories of Strike: Slash, Stab, and Projectile.

A valid Slash must be percussive (contact with an audible pop) and stop on or deflect off of the target.

A valid Stab must connect with the tip and stop on or deflect off of the target.

A valid Projectile Strike must make contact with the target.

Examples of invalid shots include grazes (Slashes that do not pop or stop/deflect), draw cuts (Stabs which fail to connect with the tip), or pushes (contact that is pushed into or slid against the victim after the initial motion was completely blocked or stopped).

Hit Locations

Players have five Hit Locations which may receive a Wound by a Strike: right arm, left arm, right leg, left leg, and torso.

The line between an arm and the torso begins at the armpit and extends up to the base of the neck.

The line between a leg and the torso begins at the bottom of the buttocks and extends forward to the hip socket.

A hand is not Wounded if struck below the wrist while holding a melee Weapon or Shield. Such Strikes are treated as though they struck the Weapon or Shield.

A foot is not Wounded if it is on the ground and struck below the ankle.

Players may never be struck in the neck or head. Such Strikes do not count as a hit, do not trigger Effects, and are always invalid.

Players may not block shots with their head or neck. Intentional head blocking can result in removal from the game by a Herald.

A Player with a Wounded arm may not wield equipment, cast Spells, or carry anything; the arm must be kept out of combat, generally by placing it behind one's back. A Wounded arm is capable of receiving an additional Wound.

A Player with a Wounded leg must either Kneel or Post. While Kneeling, the knee of the Wounded leg must be in contact with the ground. The knee of the Wounded leg may be lifted from the ground briefly to enable movement. A Wounded leg with the knee on the ground is not capable of receiving an additional Wound.

While Posting, the Player must immediately notify their opponents by stating Posting. While Posting, the Player may not voluntarily move the foot of their Wounded leg, although it may be used to pivot. Posting continues until the Player dies, is healed, or is otherwise instructed by a Herald. A Wounded leg that is posting is capable of receiving an additional Wound.

Contact

The first rule of contact is that any action which is performed in an unsafe manner is not acceptable. A person is fully responsible for the result of their actions. Unsafe behavior on the field will result in suspension from play or expulsion from the park at the sole discretion of the event organizer. The rules below outline acceptable and unacceptable contact.

The following types of contact are acceptable when performed safely.

Weapon to Weapon. Allowed.
Weapon to Body. Allowed with a Strike-Legal part of a Weapon.

Body to Weapon. Allowed in limited situations. Weapons may be pushed, swept, and otherwise manipulated with your body as long as the Weapon is not trapped or grabbed. Pushing or sweeping a Strike-Legal surface results in a valid hit to the location used for contact.
Weapon to Shield. Allowed.
Shield to Weapon. Allowed. Shields may be used to deflect, move, or pin an opponent's Weapon.

Shield to Shield. Allowed in limited situations. Shields may be used to deflect, turn, or pin an opponent's Shield so long as the wielder of the struck Shield is not moved. Bashing a Shield is prohibited.

The following actions are unacceptable. Some amount of incidental contact is expected in a contact sport, but repeated or egregious offenses will result in suspension or expulsion from the park.

Body to Body. Prohibited.
Body to Shield. Prohibited.
Active Shield to Body. Prohibited. Passively using a Shield to prevent an opponent's forward movement is acceptable and does not count as body to Shield contact on the part of the recipient.
Active Weapon to Body. using any non-Strike-Legal portion of a Weapon is prohibited. Forcing a Player's own Weapon against them with your body or Shield is prohibited.

Death

Any two Wounds, or a Wound to the torso, results in a Death. Upon Death, a Player should announce dead to other nearby Players. A Player can also signal Death by placing their hand on top of their head. Unless otherwise noted, a Dead Player must not interact or interfere with gameplay, including giving game information to teammates. Unless otherwise noted, all States, Conditions, and Wounds are removed from Players upon Death. Boons are not removed by dying, but are removed by respawning.

A Dead Player is allowed to either remain on the field, retrieve their equipment, or return to their Camp. Dead Players may not be affected by Powers while within 20' of their Camp. Dead Players must at all times avoid interfering with gameplay; this includes staying at least 10' away from enemies and avoid distracting other Players

A Player may always choose to take a Death. Players who take a death may only return to the game by respawning per the rules of the Skirmish. Players who take a Death may not activate or trigger any Powers, do not benefit from any Effect that prevent Death, and have all Boons removed.

Combat Etiquette

Combat can become fast-paced and competitive. However, this should not come at the cost of anyone's physical or emotional well-being. In order to minimize misunderstandings, confusion, or conflict, it is important to observe the following rules.

If you become upset or angry, take a break. Come back when you are ready to continue.
If you believe a Weapon on the field is unsafe, or is being used in an unsafe manner, immediately address it politely with the wielder. If the issue persists, then address it with the Herald or other park official.

Never handle anyone's personal property without first having their permission. This permission can be revoked at any time for any reason. If you are lent a piece of equipment, do not assume or expect that it will be lent to you again.

Communicate early and often with your opponents. Regularly declare Boons, States, Conditions, Armor, and Wounds within reason when engaging opponents; always declare this information if asked. These mechanics should not come as a surprise to your opponents when they become relevant.

If you make a close block or feel your opponent's shot was invalid, communicate it immediately.

If you are unsure if your opponent's Strike was good enough, it was. Only Strikes which are clearly invalid should be treated as such. If you have to think about it, take it. If you are Wounded while throwing a Strike, that Strike is only considered valid if it lands within half a second of the Wound. If you believe you were Wounded more than half a second before you Strike your opponent, inform them not to take it.

If you are hit with a Strike you believe is late, ask your opponent if they think it was in time. If they believe it was, or are unsure, take the Strike.

Do not call Strikes on other Players unless that Player asks your opinion.

If you have an issue with a Player not taking a Strike, ask them about it politely and directly in the form of a question. If you are not satisfied with their response, bring the issue to a Herald or park-official.

If an opponent takes a Wound from you which you do not believe was from a valid Strike, tell them not to take it. If they insist, let it go.

If you hit an opponent with a Strike that was late, immediately let them know not to take it. If they insist, let it go.

If you Strike an opponent in the head or neck, stop fighting and ask them if they are alright. Give them time to recover if they request it, and contact a Herald or park official if necessary.

If you become injured on the field, immediately inform any Player engaging with you and remove yourself from the field of play. If you need assistance, notify a nearby Player or Herald.

If a Player becomes injured in your immediate vicinity, move yourself a short distance away and continue play if it is safe to do so. If the injured Player requests or requires assistance, remove yourself from play and offer assistance.

If it is necessary to notify nearby Players of a safety situation which requires them to stop play, then a Player can loudly announce safety to get the attention of nearby Players and direct them away from the situation. All Player must avoid safety incidents while continuing play. If it is necessary to stop play for the entire field, a Player should loudly announce emergency. All Players must immediately stop play and cease moving until an emergency incident has been resolved.

EQUIPMENT

Safety

A safe Weapon is one that will not break bones or regularly leave bruises when it Strikes a person. Every Weapon should be checked for legality by a park-official prior to its use on the field each day. The hallmark of Weapon legality is Player safety, and as such safety will always supersede technical compliance with Weapon construction requirements. While a Weapon may meet the technical requirements for legality, it may still be unsafe in its construction or in the manner in which it is being used. Examples of technically legal but unsafe Weapons might be Weapons made with overly hard foam; Weapons with cores so flexible as to risk breaking; Weapons with excessive tape; or Weapons with excessive mass. Use of unsafe Weapons or safe Weapons used in an unsafe manner may result in removal from play.

Definitions

Core. This refers to the base of the Weapon to which padding is affixed. For melee Weapon cores the best things to use are carbon/graphite rods (such as from non-metallic golf clubs), kite spar, bamboo, PVC tubing or fiberglass. Other materials will be checked for safety on a case-by-case basis. Metal and wooden cores are not legal, although metal may be used to counter-weight Weapons provided it is permanently attached, and not in a place that may inadvertently Strike an opponent. The ends of all Weapon cores must be blunted by capping them with a layer of foam and tape at a minimum. For throwing Weapons acceptable options are denim, loose rubber bands, sweatshirt material, or similar.

Courtesy Padding. This refers to the portion of the Weapon that is designed to limit injuries from incidental contact with that part of the Weapon and is not intended for striking. These portions of a Weapon must have at least 1/2" of foam over the Weapon's core. A Weapon is required to have courtesy padding over the entire circumference of its Strike-Legal length.

Cross Guard. This refers to an optional piece at the juncture of the blade and handle designed to deflect blows and protect the hand from injury. Cross guards must be padded and all tips must have at least a 2" cross section parallel to the handle.

Double-Ended. Only Weapon Types with this descriptor may have a striking surface at both ends. This may be either a Stabbing Tip or a Slash edge unless otherwise restricted by the Weapon Type. Must still adhere to the construction requirements of the Weapon Type for the extra striking surface.
Example. A 6ft Great Weapon could have a striking surface on each end with a minimum of 18" of Strike-Legal in order to slash with both ends OR could have one 18" slashing end and one 6" thrusting end. Both configurations would require each end to be 1/3 padded.

Handle. Refers to the unpadded part of the Weapon (where it is often held).

Heavy Padding. This refers to portions of the Weapon that meet all of the requirements of Strike-Legal, and in addition have at least a 4" cross section from edge to edge (instead of 2.5") and at least 1" of foam over the Weapon core. It is considered Strike-Legal for the purposes of scoring hits.

Pommel. This refers to the padded portion of a Weapon at the end of the handle, not intended for striking. The end of the pommel must have at least a 2" cross-section perpendicular to the handle and must be padded.

Stabbing Tip. This refers to the end of a Weapon that is not the pommel, regardless of whether or not it is used to stab. Stabbing tips must not protrude more than 1.5" through a 2.5" ring when uncompressed, nor end in an angle less than 90 degrees and must be Strike-Legal. You must not be able to feel core through a stabbing tip.

Strike-Legal. This refers to the portions of the Weapon that are sufficiently padded to prevent injury when used to Strike an opponent at full force. These portions may not break bones, teeth, or regularly leave bruises when it Strikes a person and must have at least one 2.5" cross section from edge to edge. Strike-Legal surfaces must have at least 1" of foam over the Weapon core, measured from the furthest point on the blade to the surface of the core. Stab-only Weapons (other than projectiles) are still required to have 6" of Strike-Legal surface extending from the end of the Weapon down its length on any stabbing end for safety. Strike-Legal must be covered in a durable, opaque cloth. Unless otherwise noted, cloth tape is not an acceptable cover. Non-striking padded surfaces within 1/2" of a striking surface must still have a cloth cover."

Swing/Slash. Indicates a Weapon intended to be able to score a hit by swinging the Weapon in such a way that the side (as opposed to the tip) of the Weapon Strikes an opponent.

Thrust/Stab. Indicates a Weapon intended to be able to score a hit by thrusting the Weapon in such a way that the tip (as opposed to the sides) of the Weapon Strikes an opponent. Thrust only Weapons must have at least 6" of Strike-Legal padding.

Total Length. Refers to the distance from the bottom of the pommel (or one Stabbing Tip of a Double-Ended Weapon) to the furthest point of the Weapon measured from the bottom of the pommel in a straight line parallel to the core of the Weapon.
Example. You measure a scimitar from the bottom of the pommel to the tip of the Weapon, not along the curve.

Wield. Indicates that a piece of equipment may be used in the game for purposes of striking or blocking. A Player may only wield equipment granted to them by their Class, Boons, or other Effects. Players may carry equipment that they cannot wield, but may not use or pretend to use it to strike or block. Carried equipment is still subject to Breaking, Crushing, and Destroying Effects.

Projectiles

This category includes thrown Weapons, rocks, javelins, and Hexes. Unless otherwise noted, projectiles may not be used to parry, block, or melee; are indestructible, and affect all targets struck while in motion. Only projectiles may be thrown. Unless otherwise noted, projectiles may not have rigid or granular cores such as wrapped balls of rubber bands, tennis balls, etc. Suggested acceptable materials are sweatshirt material, loose rubber bands, etc. Unless otherwise noted, any protrusions or tips on a projectile must meet the requirements for stabbing tips.

Thrown Weapons

These Weapons represent throwing daggers, axes, shurikens, and the like.
1. Light Thrown must be between 2.5" and 9" in total length.
a) May not be of a color and shape which may be confused with a Hex
2. Heavy Thrown must be between 9" and 18" in total length
3. Will score a hit from any portion of the Weapon.

Javelins

Javelins are a hybrid thrown/melee Weapon. Javelins are only available to those classes explicitly granted Javelins.
1. Between 36" and 72" long.
2. Must have between 6" and 12" of Strike-Legal.
3. Must be padded along their entire length.
4. May be thrown and used in melee (including blocking and parrying).
5. Must Strike with the Strike-Legal length to score a hit.
6. Must have a rigid core.
7. Pommel is not required to meet the requirements for a stabbing tip.
8. When thrown, count as a thrown Weapon for the purposes of Effects such as Missile Block.
9. Are broken by Weapon Breaking.

Rocks

1. Rocks must be at least 10" in each dimension.
a) Hits from Rocks are Shield Crushing
2. All parts must be Strike-Legal.
a) These Weapons are exempt from a minimum foam depth for Strike-Legal.
3. May be covered in non-abrasive cloth tape instead of cloth.
a) Duct tape may not be used as a cover.
4. Will score a hit from any portion of the Weapon.
5. May be used to block thrown Weapons.

Hexes

Hexes are thrown to represent various magical attacks; they are not projectile Weapons but follow the same construction requirements except as noted below.
1. Must be a spherical object at least 2.5" in diameter.
2. Must have a streamer between 1" and 6" long.
3. All parts must be Strike-Legal.
a) These Weapons are exempt from a minimum foam depth for Strike-Legal.
4. Will score a hit from any portion of the object.

Melee

All melee Weapons require a rigid core (unless otherwise noted) and may be used to block, parry, or score hits with their Strike-Legal portion. Some melee Weapons allow for Heavy Padding Substitution for a given length.

Heavy Padding

All melee Weapons require a portion their length to be Strike-Legal, as noted in the individual Weapon descriptions. Heavy Padding Substitution allows you to replace a portion of Strike-Legal with Heavy Padding. For each inch of Heavy Padding added you may also replace an additional inch of Strike-Legal with Courtesy Padding. Heavy Padding added must start within 3" of the stabbing tip and proceed continuously towards the handle.

Courtesy Padding added in this manner must begin at the top of the handle and proceed continuously towards the tip.
Example. A 48" Long Weapon is typically required to have 32" of Strike-Legal followed by 16" of Handle. Using Heavy Padding Substitution you could have 16" of Heavy Padding followed by 16" of Courtesy Padding and a 16" Handle.

Dagger

1. May stab and slash.
2. Must be between 10" and 18".
3. Must have 10" of Strike-Legal surface.

Short

1. May stab and slash.
2. Must be between 18" and 36".
3. At least 2/3 of its length must be Strike-Legal.
4. Allows for 1/3 of its length to be substituted for Heavy Padding.
5. May be Double-Ended.

Long

1. May stab and slash.
2. Must be between 36" and 48".
3. At least 2/3 of its length must be padded.
4. If used to slash, at least 2/3 of its length must be Strike-Legal.
5. Allows for 1/3 of its length to be substituted for Heavy Padding.
6. May be Double-Ended.

Hinged

1. No more than 36" in length.
2. Counts as a short Weapon
3. Has a single articulating head which must be entirely Strike-Legal and cannot contain a rigid core.
4. The chain of a hinged Weapon:
a) Is not a legal striking edge.
b) Must be wrapped in foam with less than 1" of the rope exposed at any point.
5. The combined rope and striking edge may not exceed 18" in length.
6. The top half of the non-rope and Strike-Legal portion of the Weapon must be padded.

Great

1. May stab and slash.
2. Must be greater than 48"in length.
3. Core must be rigid and not bend significantly.
a) PVC may not be used for great Weapons.
4. Must be padded on upper 1/2 of length or at least 3', whichever is less.
5. If used to slash must have at least 18" of Strike-Legal surface.
6. May be wielded by holding the Strike-Legal portion.
7. If the Weapon has at least 18" of Heavy Padding it gains the Shield Crushing Condition.
a) Heavy Padding on Great Weapons must start within 3" of the tip of the Weapon and be continuous down the core.
8. May be Double-Ended.
a) Double-Ended requires 1/3 of its length to be padded or at least 3', whichever is less. This requirement replaces the standard requirement for padding on great Weapons.

Madu

A Shield joined to a Weapon. Counts as both a Shield and a Weapon.
1. Only usable if a class can use both a Weapon of the Madu's length and a Shield.
2. Weapon Breaking will affect the entirety of the Madu if it Strikes any part of the Weapon portion.
3. Shield Crushing and Shield Destroying affect the entirety of the Madu if it Strikes any part of the Shield portion.
4. Powers that affect any part of the Madu affect its entirety.
5. Weapon portion must be non-hinged and melee-only.
6. If built to slash.
a) At least 1/3 of its length (excluding the Shield portion) must be Strike-Legal.
b) At least 12" must be Strike-Legal.
c) The entirety of the non-Strike-Legal portion must be courtesy padded.
7. May be Double-Ended.

Shields

Shields are used to block shots from Weapons. All Shield measurements are the exterior surface area on a flat plane.

1. Must not break or bend significantly during the course of combat. Rigid or easily breakable foam, or low-density foams, are inappropriate for all-foam Shield construction. Some acceptable materials are:
a) Sturdy high-density foam.
b) Plywood.
c) High impact plastics.
2. Must have an opaque, durable cover such as cloth or PlastiDip.
3. The rim and face of the Shield must be padded by at least 1" of closed cell foam.
a) All-foam Shields do not require any additional padding so long as the foam itself would be considered padding.
4. Hard edges may not be exposed on any surface which can reasonably come into contact with another Player or their equipment.
5. Must be gripped in a hand in order to be considered wielded.
a) A Shield that is gripped in a hand may also have a support strap around the arm.
b) A blow that Strikes a non-wielded Shield strapped to a Player, such as a Shield slung across a back, is considered to Strike the Player as if the Shield had not been there.
c) A small Shield may be strapped to an arm instead of wielded in a hand.
6. A small Shield is between 36 square inches (6.8 inch diameter) and three square feet (23.45 inch diameter).
7. A medium Shield is no larger than five square feet (30.28 inch diameter).
8. A large Shield is no larger than eight square feet (38.3 inch diameter).
9. Shield shapes may not cause confusion on the field. A Shield cannot look like Armor or a Weapon.

Other Equipment

Sashes

Sashes are used to denote certain classes by their color in Skirmishes where classes are used. All sashes must be at least 2" wide. Generally worn from shoulder to opposite hip across the body, but can be worn in any manner where it is easily visible to other Players and distinguishable from other clothing or garb.

Staffs

Staffs are defensive equipment which are allowed to block like a melee weapon, but may not be used for striking under any circumstances. Staffs are only available to those classes explicitly granted Staffs.
1. Must be between 48" and 72" long.
2. Must be padded along the entire length.
3. Ends must follow the rules of a stabbing tip.
4. Hands holding Staffs are considered free for the purposes of Spell casting.

Strips

Strips are used to denote certain types of Boons, Effects, or Conditions for quick on-field identification. The most common use of strips is to denote Boons.
1. Strips must have at least 6" of visible drape, and cannot be covered by garb or equipment.
2. Strips on Players must be attached in a visible location when viewing a Player from the front.
3. Strips have a cohesive color-coding system.
a) Offensive Boons and Effects are signaled by red strips.
b) Defensive Boons and Effects are signaled by white strips.
c) Miscellaneous Boons and Effects are signaled by yellow strips.
d) Archetypes are signaled with either green or purple strips.
4. Boons and Effects that require Boon strips do not function if the Boon strips are not present. It is the responsibility of the Bearer to ensure their strips are present.

Equipment Checking

Before any day of combat begins, all Combat Equipment brought to the field should be checked by a park official. Equipment which does not pass a check may not be used on the field. Using unchecked equipment on the field is grounds for immediate suspension from combat for the day at the discretion of the park official.

Checking Process

This is an outline for checking Equipment. This is not exhaustive, but serves as a short checklist.

Weapons

1. Opaque cloth cover in good repair.
2. Tips at least 2.5" in diameter.
3. Pommel at least 2" in diameter.
4. Strike-Legal is in good repair and is the minimum required length.
5. Core cannot be felt when used to slash in a reasonable manner by both an average user and the intended user.
6. Core cannot be felt when used to stab in a reasonable manner by both an average user and the intended user.
7. The Weapon does not break bones or teeth, or consistently leaves marks or bruises, when used in a reasonable manner by both an average user and the intended user.

Shields

1. Opaque, durable cover in good repair.
2. No unpadded bolts, zipties, or other solid protrusions on the Shield edge or face.
3. No solid, rigid core may be felt through either the face or the edge of the Shield when struck solidly with the palm of the hand.

POWERS

During Skirmishes, Players have a list of Powers they can use to influence themselves, their allies, their enemies, and the battlefield. Powers are broken into three origins: Spells, Abilities, and Traits. Powers are granted to a Player primarily by their Class and Level, but may also be grants by other Effects.

Powers with the Spell (S) origin represent magic. They are mostly available to Caster Classes. Players must have a free hand to activate Spells. Spell Incantations are interrupted if the Player move their feet.

Powers with the Ability (A) origin represent skills or talents. They are used most often by Martial Classes. They do not have the same free-hand and still-foot restrictions as Spells.

Powers with the Trait (T) origin represent innate feats or proficiencies which do not require activation and are automatically in effect. Traits do not need to be purchase unless otherwise noted.

Definitions

Archetype. Archetypes are optional Traits that may be selected at the start of a Skirmish and may not be changed. Caster Archetypes cost 2 points.

Armor. Armor is an effect which absorbs Strikes. Unless otherwise noted, a Strike to a Hit Location with a point of Armor removes that point of Armor rather than causing a Wound or Death. Other Effects may still trigger on a Strike, such as those with Splash.

Boon. Boons are ongoing Powers that remain active until they are removed or expended. Boons may only be cast on willing Players, and must be signaled by an appropriately colored strip attached to the Bearer. Player's default Boon limit is one.

Unless otherwise noted, Boons become inactive upon dying and removed when the Player respawns. Effects that trigger from worn Boons are considered to have a Range of Self.

Boons carried should be announced before engagements if possible. Boons carried must always be announced upon request.

Chant. A Chant is the verbal component required by some Powers that sustains their continuing function and may be maintained while moving. A Chant must be audible to 50' and must be spaced no more than five seconds apart. Players may still speak in between Chants. Unless otherwise noted, a Player may voluntarily end a Spell or Ability with an ongoing Chant at any time, and failure to Chant ends the Effect. Only one Chant can be maintained at a time.

Charge. Charging or Overcharging allow Players to regain uses of Powers with the Charge tag. Charging allows Players to regain only their last use of a Spell or Ability. Overcharging allows Players to regain Powers up to their maximum number of uses.

Charging involves performing the Charge Incantation: Charging [Spell being Charged] [count to 60]. While performing this Incantation, the Caster may move their feet. If an enemy is within 10' of them at any point, the Incantation is interrupted.

Player may not use Charge Incantation while Shrouded, Silenced, or Out of Game; or in their Camp, unless they have left it since respawning.

Death Trigger. Powers with the Death Trigger Restriction may be used within 10 seconds of the Caster dying. During this 10 seconds, the Player is still considred dead and may be affected by Powers that function on dead Players. Players may not activate Death Trigger Powers if they have moved more than 3' since dying.

Hexes. Hexes which are thrown and Strike a Player or object can have various Effects. Once a Hex's Incantation has been said, it is considered active until thrown or interrupted. A hand is not considered free while holding an active Hex, and a Player may only have one Hex per hand at a time.

When thrown, a Hex's name must be declared. This declaration must be audible to 50' and is considered an Incantation; the hand throwing the Hex is considered free for this Incantation. Hexes affect only the first Player, Wielded Equipment, or Terrain they hit. Hexes are not Splash unless noted.
A magic-user may physically carry only the number of Hexes purchased. Other Players may not carry extra Hexes for magic-users.
Hexes are not thrown Weapons, and do not damage Armor unless otherwise noted.

Incantation. An Incantation is the verbal component required by some Powers that initiates their function. Powers used at a Range greater than Touch require that the target be identified, either with a name or with a class and description.

Example 1. [Point with free hand] Jay, I command thee to stop, I command thee to stop...
Example 2. [Point with a free hand] Cleric in blue. I command thee to stop...
Incantations must be said loudly and clearly enough to be heard within 50' or by the recipient, whichever is closer. Incantations for Powers which target self must be audible to within 20'. In the event of a disagreement over audible range, consult a Herald.
Incantations for casting Spells require a free hand. If a Player moves their feet during a Spell Incantation, it is interrupted.
If an Incantation cannot be understood due to improper wording, mispronunciation, omitted words, or a gap of more than two seconds between words, it is interrupted.
An interrupted Incantation does not result in a Spell or Ability being consumed. Interrupted Incantations must be restarted from the beginning.Starting an Incantation interrupts any other Incantation or Chant the Player has in progress. Completing an Incantation results in a Spell or Ability being used up, regardless of if the target was valid or affected.
Incantations require the target to be at least partially visible to the Caster at the end of the Incantation to be effective. If the target is not at least partially visible, the Spell or Ability is still used up. Incantations may not be used in the Caster's Camp.
Players may not begin an Incantation for a Spell or Ability that they are not casting or cannot cast. Pretending to activate a Spell or Ability as a joke or to gain a gameplay advantage can result in the Executed Condition from a Herald.

Kill/Wound Trigger. Powers with the Kill/Wound Trigger Limitation can only be used within 10 seconds after the Caster Strikes a blow that kills/wounds an enemy with a melee or projectile. Killing blows count as Wounds for the purposes of Wound Trigger. The Caster may only use the Trigger once per eligible blow i.e. Barbarians cannot activate Adrenaline and Blood and Thunder from the same killing blow.

Range. Range is the maximum distance at which a Spell or Ability is effective. Targets outside of this range at the completion of the Incantation are not valid targets. For Powers used at a range of Touch, any physical contact between Caster and target is sufficient, including equipment-to-equipment contact.

Ward. A Ward blocks a single Wound, Battered state, or loss of Armor point that occurs on any Hit Location, after which it is gone. Any Effects from the Strike still trigger. Wards from different sources cannot stack.
Example. A Rogue with a Ward is hit in the arm with a Lightning Bolt. The Ward is expended, the Player does not receive a Wound in the arm, but is still Stopped for 30 seconds as per Lightning Bolt's description.

States, Effects, and Conditions

States, Effects, and Conditions are common language used to define game events. All Spells, Abilities, and Traits (with few exceptions) make use of a small set of common terms to explain the result they have. These results are classified as States, Effects, and Conditions. A Player can have any number of different States, Effects, and Conditions simultaneously.

Effects

An Effect is the result of a Spell or Ability other than a State or Condition, and functions per the Spell or Ability's description. An Effect conferred by a class Trait, such as Immunity to Subdual, is always on and may not be removed by respawn, death, or any other means. Effects imparted at the same time as a killing blow are considered to have taken effect prior to death.

States

There are eight states that may impact a Player. States may be the result of friendly or hostile action. A State without a duration continues until it is removed by some outside force or until a condition is met. If a Player would gain a State they are already affected by, the State's duration will simply be adjusted to the new duration if it is longer than the current duration. Unless otherwise noted, all States end when a Player dies.
If a Player is affected by a State with a 30 second duration, that Player must declare the elapsed time every five seconds. When they have declared 30, they must announce [State] ended for the State to end. These all must be audible out to 20 feet.

Battered. Any Wound dealt to the Player will result in Death. This State is removed by any Effect that would heal a Wound.

Charmed. The Player may not attack the source of their Charmed State. This State immediately ends if that source attacks or begins to use a Power on the Player.

Disarmed. The Player's melee attacks deal no damage and trigger no Effects. The Player's thrown Weapons and Javelins are nullified.

Doomed. The Player is Immune to Light. This persists after Death but is removed by Respawning.

Frozen. The Player may not move or take any game actions. Can only be affected by mechanics that work on States in general (such as Release) or Frozen in specific (such as Shatter). Otherwise, Player and their equipment are Immune from game activity.

Shrouded. The Player can only be affected by mechanics that work on States in general (such as Release) or Shrouded in specific (such as Lost). Otherwise, Player and their worn or carried equipment are Immune from game activity. A Shrouded Player may only take game actions that target themselves or explicitly state they may be performed while Shrouded (such as Lethal Return). Player may still be seen and heard, and may still see and hear the game. Player must indicate their Shrouded State by saying Shrouded if asked, attacked, or targeted by a Spell or Ability. May not delay the game excessively. The Herald's decision in these situations is final.

Silenced. The Player is unable to activate Powers that have an Incantation. Has no impact on Powers already activated or Boons activating such as Wolf Pack.

Stopped. Player may not move their feet. Unless otherwise noted, Powers such as Shove, Exile, etc. which allow or require movement fail when targeting a Stopped Player.

Conditions

Conditions typically trigger when a Player or object is hit by a Weapon, Hex, or targeted by a completed Verbal Spell. A single trigger typically only has one relevant Condition, though there are exceptions. When using a Weapon or Spell which causes a Condition, you must announce it to your opponent at the beginning of an engagement and periodically during the engagement when reasonable. The game flows more smoothly and everybody has more fun when Conditions are stated ahead of time rather than kept as surprises.

Armor Piercing. Effects with this Condition ignore Armor. This does not include Wards, Boons, or other Immunities.

Executed. Player instantly dies. This death does not activate Powers; removes all Boons, States, and other ongoing Effects; and the Player may only come back to life by respawning normally. Only the result of rules violations.

Immune/Ignore. Players with the Immune Condition are unaffected by game events listed in the Immunity. Ignore Effects supersede Immunity.

Lethal. Players Wounded or Battered by Weapons with this Condition are killed. Signaled by announcing Lethal.

Shield Crushing. Three hits to a Shield from a source with the Shield Crushing Condition destroys the Shield. Hits from different sources are cumulative. Signaled by announcing Crushing.

Shield Destroying. A hit to a Shield from a Weapon, Hex, etc. with the Shield Destroying Condition destroys the Shield. Signaled by announcing Destroying. Destroyed Shields cannot be used to block. Strikes to destroyed Shields are considered to have hit an arm holding it.

Splash. Effects with this Condition affect the Player even if they hit only their carried, worn, or wielded equipment or clothes.

Return. An affected player must move directly to their Camp or specified location, and may not take game actions until they do. They may still be affected by other game actions. Return is a Condition, not a State, and is not ended early by State-ending Effects like Cleanse. Wounded Players may move while Returning, but are considered Battered.

Out of Game. The Player is not participating in play. Do not interact with an Out of Game Player unless you are a Herald. A Player may become Out of Game if they are injured, being addressed by a Herald, or other similar situation. The Out of Game may only be ended by a Herald.

Weapon Breaking. A hit to a Weapon from a Weapon, Hex, etc. with the Weapon Breaking Condition breaks the Weapon. Broken Weapons cannot be used to Strike or block. Strikes to broken Weapons are considered to have hit an arm holding it. Signaled by announcing Breaking.

Cheat Sheet

When an Enemy uses a Power that may affect you, there are signals that inform you of its Type, Range, and Effect. These are general guidelines, not official rules, but they will help you in most cases as you become familiar with the game.

Targeted. These Incantations have a range of 20ft and must be repeated 3 times. Your Enemy must make it clear that they are targeting you. States from these Powers last 30 seconds with the exception of Battered and Doomed.

Area of Effect. These Incantations have a range of 10ft and must be repeated 2 times. Most States from these Powers only last while within Range.

States. Incantations that inflict a State will name the State (Example: You are charmed by my will). Incantations without such keywords often inflict the Return condition or a death (Example: A flash of lightning strikes you dead).

When an Enemy starts using a Power on you, listen for the keywords that can tell you about the Effect or State it might inflict. These guidelines do have exceptions, but for the most part the words in an Incantation will inform you what your Enemy is attempting to do.

Incantations often have keywords that indicate the School or Type of Power.

Command. "Will"
Death. "Death"
Light. "Light"
Protection. "Guard"
Storm. "Flash"
Subdual. "Bind/Bond"
Wild. "Power"
Boon. "Grant"
Hex. "Channel"
Area of Effect. "Voice"

If you are ever unsure what a Power does, you can always ask; an Enemy is not required to tell you until after they've finished the Incantation. The best way to avoid unknown Powers is to get out of Range before the Incantation finishes.

CLASSES

Credits and Levels

If you wish to fight or participate in Class Skirmishes, you must select one class for each. A person may advance in level in a Class after earning the requisite credits. Only one attendance credit may be given on a single day, and is awarded at the end of the day. You must play the Class you wish to gain credit in. If no Class is played but fighting takes place, you may take a Fighter credit. Players who Herald may take an additional credit. All Classes gain new levels at the following rate:

Credits Required for Each Level

| Level | Credits Required |
|---|---|
| 1st Level | 0-2 credits in that class |
| 2nd Level | 3-6 credits in that class |
| 3rd Level | 7-11 credits in that class |
| 4th Level | 12-17 credits in that class |
| 5th Level | 18+ credits in that class |

Class Powers are presented in the following format:

Name of Power

Frequency

School | Type | Origin | Range | Material

Incantation

Effect
Note: Note.
Restriction: Restriction.

Barbarian

A fierce and aggressive Martial Class. Barbarian Abilities focus on keeping them in the fight and rewarding them for inflicting damage.

Bard

The most versatile Caster class. Bard spells focus on buffing allies and controlling enemy positioning.

Cleric

The Caster class that controls the balance of life and death. Cleric Spells range from healing and protection, to raising an army of zombies.

Druid

An adaptive and resilient Caster class. Druid Spells focus on granting powerful Boons to themselves and their allies. They can serve as back-line support or front-line infantry.

Fighter

A rugged and formidable Martial class. Fighter Abilities allow them to shrug off the blows and scourges of the battlefield.

Monk

A physical and nuanced Martial class. Monk Abilities allow them to deflect and ignore incoming danger.

Rogue

A treacherous Martial class that specializes in maximum damage. Rogue Abilities excel at targeted kills against powerful enemies.

Wizard

This Caster class is the master of the arcane. Wizard Spells burn, subdue, dispel, and destroy everything in their path. They utilize a barrage of Verbals and Hexes to dispatch their foes.

BARBARIAN

SKIRMISHES

The rules for combat, equipment, magic, and classes are constant while playing Storms. Each game mode, however, has its own rules for respawning, objectives, win conditions, resets, and more. Always check with a park official about the rules of the game mode prior to playing.

Skirmishes vs. Brawls

Games are broken into two categories: Skirmish and Brawl. Skirmishes use the full rules of Classes and Powers. Players are required to wear a sash during Skirmishes, and are only allowed to use the equipment available to their Class. Brawls only use the rules of combat. Player cannot use Powers during Brawls. Players can use any equipment during Brawls, provided they adhere to the rules of the equipment. Most game modes can be played either as a Skirmish or Brawl.

Battlefield

It is recommended for most gamhes take place on a field 120ft long and approximately 40ft wide, with Camps on either side. Tall cones on the corners of the field indicate the boundaries of the Camps, and small cones along the center line are spaced 20ft apart to provide a visual reminder of the range of many spells.

Camp

A Camp is the safe respawning area for each team during a game. A Player may respawn in their Camp at any point after their respawn timer has expired, provided they or their team still have lives. Absolutely no combat may take place in a Camp, and Players that enter an enemy team's Camp are immediately Executed. If a Player's equipment ends up in an enemy Camp, they may ask a Player on that team to retrieve it.
Combat near a Camp should be minimized. Use good judgment when playing near a Camp. If a Player respectfully asks you to move away from their Camp, do so.

Players may use their Camp to store equipment and other personal effects. Only equipment stored in the Camp may be used by that Player during the current game. Players may only acquire equipment from outside their Camp between Skirmishes, or with permission from a Herald. Spectators are allowed in Camp unless respectfully asked by a Player to leave. Game objectives may not be brought within 20' of a Camp unless stated otherwise.

Objectives

Some game types use a movable objective such as a flag. Unless otherwise stated, the following rules apply to game objectives:
1. Players carrying a game objective may not run. If a Player runs at any time while holding the objective, the objective is returned to the location the Player picked it up from.
2. Players must carry a game objective with a free hand. A Player cannot wield a Weapon or Shield, or cast Spells with the hand/arm being used to carry the objective.
3. A game objective cannot be used to block.
4. A game objective cannot be thrown.
5. A living Player can gently toss an objective a small distance so long as it is not in the direction of another Player.
6. A Player that dies while holding a game objective must immediately drop the objective at the location their feet were in when they died.

Gametypes

Team Deathmatch

Any-team game where each team has a limited pool of shared lives. Field and Camps can be arranged in any way to accommodate team numbers. The last team with living Players wins.

2-Flag Capture

Two-team game where each team has a flag or other game objective located at a goal at least 20' from their Camp. Teams score a point for having both flags at their goal. A team's respawns are instant when their flag is being held by an enemy. Refresh after 3 rounds.

1-Flag Assault

Two-team game where each team has a goal at least 20' from their Camp, and one flag or other game objective is located at the center of the field. Teams score a point for touching the flag to the enemy's goal. A team's respawns are instant when the flag is being held by their team and on the enemy's half of the field. Refresh after 3 rounds.

Juggernaut

Five-player semi-free-for-all. Arrange three Camps around the field. Two Players designated Juggernauts are on a team, the other three are solo. Solo Players who kill a Juggernaut become the Juggernaut. Players score points as follows:
Solo Player kills solo Player: 1 point
Solo Player kills Juggernaut: 0 points
Juggernaut kills solo Player: 2 points
Juggernaut kills Juggernaut: -1 point, next Player to respawn becomes new Juggernaut
First Player to 11 wins.

All-for-One

A Class is decided at random. Every Player in the game must play that Class at their current level. Teams are chosen after Class selection. No sashes are required for this game type.

Imbroglio

Four-team timed game on a square field where each team's Camp is on a corner and diagonals are marked. Two flags start symmetrically on the field. At the end of the round, each flag awards points to the two closest Camps.

Optional Rule: Flags start the second and third round in the opposite quadrant from where they ended the previous round.

Ring the Bell

Two-team game where players score points by stepping on the cone farthest from their Camp. Once a Player has scored, they can only score again by returning to the cone closest to their Camp.

Terrain

Battlefields can be augmented with terrain with the use of colored survey tape. These rules are optional, but can make a Skirmish more dynamic and strategic. Tape of different colors can represent different barriers to movement, attacks, or abilities.

High Wall

High Walls represent solid, opaque structures that block movement and line of sight. Players cannot move through, score melee Strikes across, cast over, or throw projectiles above High Walls. High Walls are most often represented by pink or orange survey tape.

Low Wall

Low Walls represent gates, fences, windows, or other structures that block movement. Players cannot move through or score melee Strikes across a Low Wall. Players can still throw projectiles over Low Walls, and use Powers with a Range greater than Other. Low Walls are most often represented by yellow survey tape.

Water

Water represents ponds, rivers, moats, or other structures that hamper movement.
Players can only move through Water in a heel-to-toe method of walking. Water is most often represented by green or blue survey tape. Note that the entire area enclosed by the survey tape is considered Water, not just the border.

Terrain Abilities

In addition to the base terrain rules, each class has additional mechanics and abilities that interact with terrain.
